

FAVOURITES – TRUE OR FALSE

The statistics in this report are based on a study of 1008 Australian races that were contested between February 7, 2008 and March 9, 2008.

This encompassed racing in all states and across all tracks – metropolitan, provincial and country – on all surface conditions.

Of the 1008 races, 322 were won by horses that were the favourite runner according to the “home state” TAB.

This represented a strike rate of 31.94%, generally accepted to be within the range of what favourite success expectations would be.

On a level stakes basis, the 322 winners returned dividends totalling $876.10 – or an average of $2.72. This also represented a $1.00 level stakes loss of $131.90, or a loss on turnover of 13.08%.

Obviously, with such a high strike rate, to ignore favourites in any race from consideration is a fatal error – but which favourites are “true” and which are “false”?

Clearly the aim is to be able to back the favourites where the statistical advantages outweigh the disadvantages and, conversely, with the advent of Betfair, lay the favourites where their disadvantages outweigh the advantages.

In our opinion, there are significant identifiable areas of advantage and disadvantage which should weigh heavily with any punter when assessing a favourites chance of success. These are, in no particular order of importance:

- i) the difference in distance between a horse’s last start and the current event
- ii) the distance beaten last start
- iii) barrier/field percentage
- iv) the number of days since the last start
- v) the horse’s career winning strike rate
- vi) age of the horse
- vii) favourites having their first start

This 33 page report (with all data attached) then sets out to clearly identify what the percentages of advantage and disadvantage are in relation to the above five areas of interest, together with many other subsets of data, in a clear unambiguous manner.

Hopefully, armed with this information, you will be able to “sort out the wheat from the chaff” when deciding to back or lay favourites at any Australian venue.

WINNING PERCENTAGES OF FAVOURITES BY WEIGHT CARRIED

56.0kg	32.98%	800 – 1300m	38.46%	1300m+	21.87%
55.5kg	24.03%	800 – 1300m	20.00%	1300m+	28.57%
55.0kg	38.02%	800 – 1300m	47.22%	1300m+	28.57%
54.5kg	27.45%	800 – 1300m	25.80%	1300m+	30.00%
54.0kg	32.78%	800 – 1300m	37.50%	1300m+	27.58%
53.5kg	36.00%	800 – 1300m	28.80%	1300m+	45.45%
53.0kg	36.58%	800 – 1300m	47.05%	1300m+	29.16%

Summary: Ignoring the figure for horses carrying 55.5kg and 58.5kg (which we believe are statistical freaks which would even out over a larger sample) the trend lines appear to show a distinct advantage in overall terms of backing favourites carrying 57.5kgs or less, but laying favourites carrying 58kg, particularly over race distances of more than 1300metres. This observation of weight / distance carries through nearly all weight ranges.

WINNING PERCENTAGES OF FAVOURITES
HANDICAPPED WEIGHT OVER MINIMUM
(1008 races Feb / Mar 2008)

Weight over minimum	Winning percentage
6.5kg+	33.33%
6.0kg	40.00%
5.5kg	31.25%
5.0kg	41.66%
4.5kg	34.00%
4.0kg	30.30%
3.5kg	32.14%
3.0kg	25.27%
2.5kg	28.57%
2.0kg	34.69%
1.5kg	24.63%
1.0kg	25.00%
0.5kg	32.20%
0kg	37.93%

Summary: There appears to be little advantage in any grouping here despite the focus that is sometimes placed on this aspect of form by the “good judges” – if anything, the greater a horse is handicapped over minimum, the better its chances appear to be.

WINNING PERCENTAGES OF FAVOURITES BY AGE AND SEX
(1008 races Feb / Mar 2008)

2YO	Overall:	44.77%
	Colts/geldings	44.11%

Beaten by 1.0 to 1.9 lengths 32.33%

Beaten by 0.1 to 0.9 lengths 33.13%

Beaten by 0 lengths 34.46%

Summary: Allowing for margin of error, there appears to be a statistical advantage in backing horses that won at their last start and laying horses that were beaten by 5 lengths or more at their last start – ESPECIALLY those that started in the last 28 days.

WINNING PERCENTAGES OF FAVOURITES IN RELATION TO THEIR WINNING STRIKE RATE
(1008 races Feb / Mar 2008)

Career Winning
Strike Rate

100%	40.47%
51 to 99%	45.71%
50%	27.08%
40 to 49%	36.36%
31 to 39%	29.41%
26 to 30%	33.87%
21 to 25%	28.15%
11 to 20%	25.33%
1 to 10%	27.6%

Summary: Allowing for margin of error, there appears to be a good statistical advantage in backing favourites that have a career strike rate of 51% or more.

Note the huge variation of those with a 50% career strike rate. This can be attributed, we believe, to the large number of horse that have had two career starts for one win and are then heavily backed to win their third start.

There also appears to be a statistical advantage in laying horses that have a strike rate of less than 20%

WINNING PERCENTAGES OF FAVOURITES IN RELATION TO THE DISTANCE OF THE RACE BEING CONTESTED
(1008 races Feb / Mar 2008)

2200 to 2600 metres	31.25%
2000 to 2199 metres	21.73%
1800 to 1999 metres	35.71%
1601 to 1799 metres	10.34%
1600 metres	24.44%
1500 to 1599 metres	29.72%
1400 to 1499 metres	31.72%
1300 to 1399 metres	22.22%
1200 to 1299 metres	35.77%
1100 to 1199 metres	37.06%
1000 to 1099 metres	38.0%
900 to 999 metres	27.27%
800 to 899 metres	28.57%

Summary: Allowing for margin of error, there appears to be a good statistical advantage in laying favourites when the race distance is less than 1000 metres and between 1601 and 1799 metres. Less than 1000m and the event is often a simple “who jumps best” scenario where true form is countered by the pace of the event. In the case of the 1601 to 1799 events, we believe this is because horses that are good up to a mile are pushed “just that little bit too far” and can’t handle the extra 100 or 150 metres. In 1000 to 1200 metre events, the case for backing favourites looks strong.

WINNING PERCENTAGES OF FAVOURITES IN RELATION TO THE
DISTANCE OF THE RACE BEING CONTESTED AND THE DISTANCE OF ITS LAST START

(1008 races Feb / Mar 2008)

NOTE: WE FIND THIS TO BE ONE OF THE MOST TELLING STATISTICS

Going UP in distance MORE than 201 metres	21.62%
Going UP in distance 200 metres	31.94%
Going UP in distance 150 to 199 metres	40.9%
Going UP in distance 100 to 149 metres	37.58%
Going UP in distance 1 to 99 metres	36.0%
Racing at the same distance as last start	32.98%
Going DOWN in distance 1 to 99 metres	27.5%
Going DOWN in distance 100 to 119 metres	40.9%
Going DOWN in distance by more than 120 metres	27.58%

Summary: These are very important figures, probably the most important in this report.

It appears to us that a favourite racing today within 200 metres on the up side of its last start distance is a backing proposition, while those outside of that distance range are a laying proposition.

It also appears that horses going back in distance by more than 120 metres are at a distinct disadvantage (this applies regardless of whether or not they are resuming from a spell).

WINNING PERCENTAGES OF FAVOURITES IN RELATION TO THE

Summary: There appears to be a statistical advantage in backing favourites where there are 7 starters or less.

WINNING PERCENTAGES OF FAVOURITES IN RELATION TO THE PERCENTAGE OF THE FIELD DRAWN
INSIDE OF THEM AT THE START
(1008 races Feb / Mar 2008)

70% or more of the field drawn inside the fav	33.0%
51 to 60% of the field drawn inside the fav	30.48%
40 to 50% of the field drawn inside the fav	28.57%
25 to 39% of the field drawn inside the fav	25.85%
1 to 24% of the field drawn inside the fav	41.29%
0% of the field drawn inside the fav	41.17%

Summary: There appears to be a large statistical advantage in backing favourites where less than 24% of the race field is drawn inside of them at the start.

In other words, a horse drawn barrier 1 has 0% of the field drawn inside it. The calculation is the barrier number minus one, multiplied by 100 and divided by the total number of starters.

So, for example, for a horse drawn 11 in a field of 20:

$(11 - 1) \times 100 = 1000$ divided by 20 = 50 expressed as a percentage is 50% - in other words, 50% of the field will start inside this runner.

Any jockey will tell you it is easier to get caught wide in a field of 8 than it is in a field of 18 – this method then tries to assess the chances of being caught wide in a race regardless of the number of starters.

Obviously, calculations for this have to be made after final scratchings are known.

WINNING PERCENTAGES OF FAVOURITES
DEPENDING ON TRACK CONDITION
(1008 races Feb / Mar 2008)

Official Track Condition

GOOD	30.93%
DEAD	34.28%
SLOW	27.71%
HEAVY	34.83%

Summary: Allowing for statistical error we are not convinced that track condition has any bearing on the overall winning performance of favourites.
